TWO TYPICAL AMERICANS. THE LAWLESS BEEF TRUST National Democratic Candidates Stand

for What Is Highest and Best in Our Life.

The two national democratic candidates represent two types of citizenship radically different and yet each characteristically American.

Judge Parker, like his colleague, be gan life as a farmer's boy. But his aspirations were all intellectual. He never thought of money-making except incidentally. He wanted to go to college, but gave up that ambition to help his father. He taught school when 16 years old, worked his way through the state normal school at Cortland, studied law and "hung out his shingle." That used to be the main traveled road to statesmanship in this country.

Though possessed of a natural talent for political management, Judge Parker's bent was judicial. The only offices he desired or could be persuaded to accept were judgeships. He began as surrogate, then advanced to the state supreme court, and then to the court of appeals. Gradually the power of his personality impressed itself upon the men who were looking for a party leader. He was urged to be a candidate for governor, and for two years he has been looked upon as the probable candidate of the democracy in the presidential Yet, says the New York World, his way of life has not been in the least disturbed. He remains a simple country gentleman, a neighbor among neighbors, a leader in the little village activities, passing the "contribution box" in church and showing strangers to their seats on the morning after his nomination to the highest office on earthmodest, unaffected-just the sort of figure we can imagine to have been at home in Washington when Jefferson was buying Louisiana.

That is one kind of American career. Mr. Davis has pursued another kindwork on a railroad. It was a distinct brake, and when he was promoted to the position of a station agent no doubt he felt more pride than he feels now in a nomination to the vice presidency He advanced step by step until he owned railroads instead of working upon them, owned banks and mines, and accumulated more millions than Judge Parker has thousands. Incidentally he went to the senate.

A thoroughly American career, like the other. Both Judge Parker and Mr. Davis are self-made men. Each has made the best of himself with the material at hand. Each has been successful in his own way. Each has furnished an illustration of the truth of Garfield's saying that "the republic is opportuni-

New Zealand's new act is a step toward imperial feueration. It is taken in connection with the movement which gives a tariff preference to the products of countries within the British empire. Nations which open their coasting trade to British ships are not excluded, but all that observe a policy of exclusion are given tit for tat. It is even provided that ships of nations that pursue an exclusive policy may not carry goods between New Zealand and any other part of the British empire.-

In the press of current events let us not overlook the fact that the beef trust, against which the recent stockyards strike was directed, is a wholly lawless and criminal concern, the members of which, if the laws of this country were impartially enforced, would now be in prison. Almost 18 months ago, says the Chicago Examiner, a judge of a United States court handed down a decision explicitly defining this organization as utterly illegal and improper and enjoining it from doing business. He found it illegal under the Sherman antitrust law, and he found it intolerable under the common law, and in the plainest possible words he declared that its operation was inimical to public policy and ordered that operation to cease.

Every day since then the trust has continued to ignore and defy that injunction. It has defled it openly, it has made no secret of its contempt. It has continued, day after day, to do the identical things the court forbade it to do, and for this violation of the injunction not a hand has ever been raised

Let us suppose that this same beef trust should obtain from a federal court an injunction restraining strikers from coming within a certain distance of its works, and let us suppose that some of the strikers should get over the dead line. Judging by past experience in such matters is it conceivable that the injunction would be a dead-letter against such law-breakers? Or that they would be allowed to trample upon and defy the solemn authority of the courts?

Why, then, is the beef trust immune? How does it happen to be outside of the that of business. Starting, like Judge operation of the laws? Why should Parker, on a farm, he left it to go to there be justice for one class of offendupward step in life for him when he junctions worth if they are to be ensecured an opportunity to twist a forced upon one class in the community and not upon others? Here is the plain truth of the case. No one can deny it. For 18 months this injunction has been a dead letter; for 18 months these men have trampled upon it while they have continued to violate the laws that the injunction was issued to sustain.

In the course of this violation they have robbed the consumer on the one hand and the producer on the other. They have forced every household in the United States to pay more for meat: they have forced every cattleraiser to accept less for his cattle. Holding absolute control of both markets, they have plundered both impartially in the cause of "frenzied finance."

The whole western country has suffered from the blight of this lawless concern. In Iowa the loss of the cattle-raisers in the last year has been estimated at $15 for each head of cattle. In other western states the operations of the trust have caused 15 bank failures and the suicide of seven bank officials. All through the cattle-raising west the trust has brought back the farm mortgage. More mortgages on western farms have been filed in the last nine months than in the four years preceding.

While in three years the trust has reduced the price of cattle $3 a hundred pounds it has raised the price of meat to the consumer about 18 per

And for 18 months all of the operations of this iniquitous concern have been under the specific ban of a federal court, just as its existence has always been in violation of the nation's law.

And nothing is done to bring it to an accounting for its lawlessness, nothing to curb its monstrous and criminal rapacity. It lays its tribute upon every family, rich or poor. It is in all New Zegland takes a leaf out of our truthfulness just as much of a crimbook by restricting participation in inal and thief as any highwayman or her coasting trade, with the result that burglar. or vindicate the law upon it. Why not? Other men are not allowed to violate with impunity the mandates of the courts. Why should these be independent of and superior to the laws of the land?

We know that in 1896 one of the firms composing this piratical band contributed $400,000 to the republican campaign fund. Shall the country understand that there is any connection between this subscription and the beef trust's license to plundar?

WORLD'S OLDEST CITY

FOUND BY CHICAGO UNIVERSITY EXCAVATING EXPEDITION.

Udnunki, Which Scholars Say Is the Adab of Ancient Times, Uncovered in Babylonia-Discovery of Great Importance.

Udnunki, the ancient Adab, perhaps the oldest city in the world, has been discovered by the University of Chicago's excavating expedition in Babylonia. This city has for many years been the object of search by orientalists. It is mentioned in the code of Hammurabi, an early king of Babylonia, which document was translated recently by Prof. Robert F. Harper of the Chicago university, director of the expedition. He received the news the other day in a cablegram from Prof. E. J. Banks, field director of the expedition, who since leaving this country last winter for Bismya in Babylonia Las announced many important discoveries. The uncovering of ancient Adab is the greatest triumph of the expedition and one of the most important archaeological achievements of recent years.

Dr. Banks informed Prof. Harper that he had found bricks bearing the syllables Ud-Nun-Ki at the lowest level of the ruins. He is-certain that these bricks identify the city of Adab. With a force of 120 men he excavated the ruins at Bismya and found the remains of four temples, built one above the other, which he named according to the kings who built them. The dates became earlier until finally the bricks identifying Udnunki were found. Among the other articles which Dr Banks found are marble statues, onyx and sandstone lamps and many bronze objects.

"The discoveries announced by Dr Banks are of the greatest importance to science," said Prof. Harper after recelving the news. "The site which is being excavated by our expedition under the present name of Bismaya undoubtedly had the ancient name of Udnunki, which mosts tudents read as the ancient Adab referred to in the code of King Hammurabi. Work on the duins of Udnunki will be discontinued for the present, as the excavators ares pending the heated term in

NOVEL PLAN OF INVENTOR

Corporal in the Navy Has New Scheme of Aerial Transportation, But Fears Standard Oil Company.

Fearing that the Standard Oil com pany will ruin his scheme of aerial navigation by exhausting the supply of oil in the earth, thus stopping its revolutions, Frederick Laub, a corporal of the quartermaster's department at the League island navy yard, has prepared a petition which he intends submitting to congress, asking to have the corporation restrained from further operations.

Backed by John Butler, a wealthy nerchant of Newark, N. J., Laub constructed a model airship which, according to his statement, will far outdistance any inventions of the kind heretofore thought of. A trial trip was given on July 4, but owing to the breaking of a piston rod the ship did not fly. The inventor is not discouraged, however, and says that success is only a matter of a short time.

The plan is a novel one, based upon the theory that there is a point where the resistance of earth and sun respectively end. Between is a space where gravitation is neutralized. Of this space he intends to make use. All that is necessary is to sail an airship into this space, where it will remain stationary, and wait until revolution of the earth brings directly be neath it the spot where it is desired to land. Then all that remains to be done is to lower the ship to the earth again.

Regarding the Standard Oil company, Laub claims the oil in the earth is necessary to lubricate it and to keep it revolving, and that if the oil is removed the revolutions will cease, This, of course, would deal a fatal blow to his plan of transportation. Laub has applied for discharge from the navy.

EXPORTS REACH BIG FIGURE

United States Foreign Commerce for Past Fiscal Year Is Largest in Its History.

The United States foreign commerce during the fiscal year 1904 was the largest in its history, the exports of manufactures being larger than in any preceding year, while the exports of domestic products exceeded those of any other country.

The total exports during the year ending June 30, 1904, were $1,460,829,-539, against $1,420,141,679 in the fiscal year 1903, an increase of $40,687,860. The imports for the year were $990, 745,084, against $1,025,719,237 in 1903, decrease of $34,974,154, and an excess of exports over imports of $470,084,455, against $394,422,442 in 1903, an increase of $75,662,013.

Comparing the figures of 1904 with those of earlier years, it may be said that the total exports are larger than in any preceding year except 1901, and that the total commerce—the imports and exports combined—in 1904 is greater than that of any preceding preceding year. The total commerce of the year amounted to $2,451,574,623, against $2,445,860,916 in 1903 and $2,310,937,156 in 1901. The exports of domestic products from the United States in the year will exceed those of any other country. The United Kingdom is next to the United States, the world's largest exporter of domestic products, and until within recent years surpassed the United States in its total. During recent years, however, the United States has rapidly gained upon and finally Overtaken the United Kingdom in the race for supremacy as an exporter of domestic products.

HE COULDN'T "RECOVER."

His Wife Thought He Was a Goner and Accordingly Disposed of His Clothing.

A young clergyman in making his weekly visits among the poor of his parish in a near-by country village quite recently learned of a poor, sick man who recently came from Ireland with his wife and one child. When the minister called at the house, relates the Philadelphia Press, he was given a most hearty welcome, and on reaching the bedside of the sick man was surprised at finding him apparently well.
The day being warm the clergyman suggested that he get out of bed and spend an hour under a shade tree in the garden.
"It may do you good," he added.
The wife, who was present, said her husband had better remain in the house until the following day and then take a little recreation. When the clergyman returned a week later he found the husband still in bed.
"Hayen't you been out of head-inear."

bed.

"Haven't you been out of bed since I was here?" asked the man of the cloak.

"No, sir, he has not," replied his wife.
"I don't like to tell you, sir, but the doctor gave my husband up a week ago and we sold his clothes. That's the reason he didn't go to the garden."

"I have suffered from Rheumatism for thirty years and find that Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken. I was also bothered with Lame Back, and I can only say that my back hasn't bothered me since I took Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Considering that Mrs. Davison only took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the result would be considered wonderful if it were not that others are reporting similar results daily. Kushequa is fast arriving at a verdict that "Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure cure for Rheumatism."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered misery for several years. My back ached and I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches. I would often wake from a restful sleep in such pain and misery that it would be hours before I could close my eyes again. I dreaded the long nights and weary days. I could do no work. I consulted different physicians hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicines did not cure me, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was highly recomended to me. I am glad that I did so, for I soon found that it was the medicine for my case. Very soon I was rid of every ache and pain and restored to perfect health. I feel splendid, have a fine appetite, and have gained in weight a lot."—Miss Frankie Obser, 14 Warrenton St., Boston, Mass. Some derangement of the feminine organs is reponsible for this exhaustion, following any kind of work or effort. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as it has thousands of other women.

The case of Mrs. Lennox, which follows, proves this. "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: — Last winter I broke down suddenly and had to seek the advice of a doctor. I felt sore all over, with a pounding in my head, and a dizziness which I had never experienced before. I had a miserable appetite, nothing tasted good, and gradually my health broke down completely. The doctor said I had female weakness, but although I took his medicine faithfully, I found no relief.

"After two months I decided to try what a change would do for me, and as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was strongly recommended to me I decided to try it. Within three days I felt better, my appetite returned, and I could sleep. In another week I was able to sit up part of another week I was able to sit up part of the day, and in ten days more I was well. My strength had returned, I gained fourteen pounds, and felt better and stronger than I had for years. I gratefully acknowledge its merits. Very sincerely yours,
